A Tale of Two Dans of the New York Democratic Fold.

LAMONT'S TRIP NOT POLITICAL.

The President's Political Father Ignored-The Cincinnati Senatorial Contest in Court-Conkling's Denial.

News of the New York Contest. NEW YORK, Oct. 26. - [Special to the BEE.] Col. Lamont, the president's private secretary, in an interview, said: "My visit to New York has no political significance. My wife came here to make some purchases, and I have accompanied her. I have no mission, either from the president or any cabinet officer. As to the report that I am to meddle with the formation of the civil service commission, it is entirely erroneous. I have not talked to any one on the subject and do not Intend to except to answer a simple question like yours. In my conversation with the collector the subject was not even broached."

Congressman John M. Farquhar, who de feated Daniel Lockwood in the last election, says: "There can be but little doubt that my district will return a large republican majority. The stalwarts, mugwumps and half-breeds are working in harmony, and many democrats will vote for Davenport. They think that he is a better man than Hill, and the action of the administration has disgusted them with their own party."

"What caused the coolness between Mr.
Lockwood and the president."
"Mr. Lockwood is a very wealthy man. At the last election, when he was running for congress, he hired five men with hig badges to stand at the polling places and trade his ticket for any other. Daniel Lockwood, the man who put Cleveland's name in nominaman who put Cleveland's rame in nomina-tion for every office that he has ever held, is to-day ignored. We thought in Buffalo that he would be appointed unlaster to France or Spain. In my opinion this neglect to recog-nize Dan's services has somewhat soured the democracy and made their allegiance uncer-tain.³²

The Cincinnati Election Cases. CINCINNATI, Oct. 20. -Judge Buchwalter's little court room was crowded to the utmost capacity this morning by attorneys of candidates and others interested in the result of legal proceedings before him in connection with the delivery of certificates of election to four candidates for senator from Hamilton county. The matter had been argued and submitted to him on a demurrer, and on a mo-fore issued by him in favor of the four republican candidates on their petition. He repdered his decision at considerable length, holding as to the demorrer:

1—There was no misjoinder of parties, that foor candidates could saw together or separ-tion to dissolve the restraining order heretoately.

2. The court had jurisdiction not to declare who shall hold office, for that was clearly the province of the legislature upon contest, but to declare who was entitled to the certificate, for that was a personal right squarate from the title to office. He also held that it was not necessary, in order to obtain the aid of the court, to prevent arreparable injury, to more than make out a prima facte case, while in this case the avertuents of fact in the petition were insufficient ver the plaintiffs were tion were insufficient, yet the plaintiffs were entitled to amend in that particular if necessary, and in any case they were entitled to an order to stay the hand of the clerk until the merits of the case could be determined by another court. The injunction was therefore continued in force and the mandanase mus case, including the same points, was taken up by the circuit court.

The entry in the election injunction before Judge Buchwalter gave the plaintiffs twenty days in which to amend and continued the restraining order of the court. Mandamus proceedings before the circuit court, com-posed of Judges Cox, Smith and Swing, occu-pled the day. Mr. Jordan, for the respondent, argued against the jurisdiction of the court. The argument was not ended at the adjourn-

A CURIOUS WILL.

It Leads to the Culmination of a Romance in Real Life. NEW YORK, Oct. 26.- (Special to the Bue.)

A veritable romance in real life, the facts of which are vouched for by the attorney of the young lady in the case, has been developed y his efforts to prepare the way for admision to probate of a will by which she was ande joint heiress to a valuable estate upon onditions which are now in course of fulfillnent. In 1871 Joseph W. Walters, a New York broker, living with his wife and only son in Green avenue, near St. James Place, Brooklyn, died, leaving a fortune of $100,000 to his widow. She was about forty-eight years of age, and her son, Lester D. Walters, was sixteen. The boy was of a roving disposition and wearying of the strict discipline of his mother's household resolved to leave home and seek a fortune in the west. Time passed on and no tidings of the truant was received. After a while the the truant was received. After a while the lonely widow inserted an advertisement calling for a young lady companion. Among those who applied for the position was Marie Delacy, a young French girl, Mrs. Walters was strongly attached to the young woman, and treated her as a daughter. Mrs. Walters died and left a curious will, providing that the estate be divided equally between her son and commanion, if they married. If the son recompanion, if they married. If the son re-fused, three fourths to go to the girl and one fourth to him. An acquaintance of Mr-Walters advertised for him. He came to the Walters advertised for him. He came to the city and the young lady was pointed out to him by her lawyer at the theatre. He fell in love at once and they were introduced after the play. Walters, who knew nothing of the terms of the will, visited her afterward and they became engaged. The weeding will take place next Friday.

Commissioner Thoman Resigns. Washington, Oct. B .- Civil Service Comalssioner Thoman tendered his resignation, and it has been accepted by the president, to take effect November 1 next.

The following is the correspondence:
"UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, Washington, Oct. 20, 1883.—SIR:—
Respectfully referring to the conversation had with you as early as March 10, in which I expressed a wish to be relieved of my duties as a member of the United States civil service commission, and also to the apparent find that it was not then your ideasure to service commission, and also to the apparent fact that it was not then your pleasure to consider my request, I have now the honor to tender my resignation, and earnestly to beg early consideration of the same, and its acceptance. While thus asking release from so honorable a trust, I desire to record my gratineation over the proved practicability and remedial effectiveness of the form of procedure. Tried veterans in political warrate view with amazement the facile, thoug radical, departure from the familiar method of the spoils system of distributing patronage. Strenuous and sincere argument and age. Strenuous and sincere argument and aso deliberate perversion mark the opposition of different groups of antagonists, and yet it must be conceded that a majority of the political leaders in either party is in accord with the Pendieton law, it its original emetment and emphatic endorsement by a subsequent congress were honest legislative expressions, and not coer-cion of moral cowardice by popular sentiment nor partisan legerdemain.

In the great task of administrative form which you have undertaken in accordance which you have undertasen in accordance with personal and party pledges, the people will give aid. It has been my pleasure within the last two months to visit quite a number of states and territories of the union, and it was my good fortune to meet many of their citizens. It is gratifying to know that the people confide in the unequivocal intention of the president to asstain the merit system in the civil service. They had condemned the evils of former methods. Long experience had made their knowledge accurate, They welcomed the inauguration of the new. The distinctive features of the present reform agnessed to a typically the present reform appealed to a typically American sentiment which recomme Advances merit. With the precise details of the new procedure their acquaintance was not so intimate. To this they are fast suc-ceeding, and the result will be cordial approval. The inception and maintenance is with the people. I believe that the funda-mental idea of civil service reform is charac-teristic of American thought. To the popu-lar hesitation over the acceptance of the statutory details of this reform there was a response throughout the nation. Political contests assumed a new tone. Old time methods of corruption were discouraged and bossism was grapped with fresh vigor.

The improvement is yet marked. If the vicious elements still seek obtrusion into elections, the chances of their success have been lessened. The reform spirit is militant and lessened. The reform spirit is militant and advances toward complete success. Corruption by official patronage has been removed. With the imparting of a purer life to official circles, the power of the private purse to purchase political honors will be less dangerous. Public appreciation of the fact that this reform does not trench upon sturdy partisanship came late. It was studiously maintained that the civil service was to be composed of men who should abjure certain rights of citzenship. With the gradual but inevitable refutation of this false view, the outlines of reform at last stood forth in clearness. It is the reform which views the civil service as a vast business agency. Its search is for the best attainable merit. In a business which is not political it enforces no tests of party. not political it enforces no tests of party.

With confident trust in the success of your administration, I am your obedient servant, LERGY D. THOMAN. To the President. Executive Mansion, Washington, Oct. 24, 1885—Hon. Lenoy D. Thoman, Civil Service Commission—My Dean Su:-I have received your letter tendering your resignation as a member of the civil service com-mission, which is in furtherance of an inclination expressed by you very soon after my inauguration as president. The resigna-tion thus tendered is hereby accepted to take effect on the first day of November next. I ongratulate you upon the fact that in the of-ice which you relinquished you have been due by sincere, earnest work, and by steady devotion to the cause which you have had in charge, to do so much in the interest of good government and improved political methods. Yours sheerely, GROVER CLEVELAND.

THOMAN'S FUTURE MOVEMENTS. An Associated press reporter called upon Commissioner Thoman this evening, and in Commissioner Thoman this evening, and in answer to a question as to his future intentions, he said: "I will not be idle a moment; I have some private business matters that will occupy my attention for a short time, and then I expect to resume the practice of law." It is said that Judge Thoman has under consideration a proposition to form a large corporation in New York city. His only reply to a question on this point was: "I do not feel at liberty to say anything upon that subject at present."

Decrease In Postal Revenues. WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.-The decrease in postal revenues for the past fiscal year is larger than was expected. The law to reduce letter postage from three to two cents was enacted about two years ago. For the last three-quarters of the first fiscal year the effect on the revenues was inconsiderable. This was attributed in a large measure to the great in-crease in the number of two cent siamps that were used to enclose business circulars. It had been expected that this increase would continue, so that there would not be a large reduction in the postal revenues. But this expectation has not been realized. The first complete fiscal year under the operation of the reduced postal law closed on the 30th of June. It was not a good business year. It had been supposed that the difficiency would not be more than $4,000,000. On the contrary it will be about $7,000,000. These figures are not to be taken as accurate as the president's wish that bureau reports shall not be given to the public in advance of this message makes it impossible to obtain the given to the public in advance of this message makes it impossible to obtain the exact ligures.

THE WARD TRIAL. A QUARREL'S FATAL ENDING.

A Jury Secured and the Case Commenced-Fish on the Stand. NEW YORK, Oct. 26.-The work of securing a jury for the trial of Ferdinand Ward was completed this afternoon, and District Attorney Martin opened the case. He said Ward had been indieted for targeny and he read the statute covering the crime. While the district attorney was speaking. James D. Pish, with his enstedians, entered the court room. He glanced at Ward and was removed to a private room where he remained until to a private room where he remained until wanted as a witness. The district attorney said that Ward on May 5, 1884, in this city, presented a check for $71,800 to the Marine bank, drawn against a check for $75,000 of the First National bank. Ward received the money from the Marine bank. The $75,000 check was not honored by the First National bank, and Ward was guilty of grand larveny by procuring $71,000 on it from the Marine bank. The jury must remember Ward was not on trial for ruining Gen. Grant and sending him broken hearted to the grave, or for sending to state prison for ten years a gentleman highly connected in banking circles, but was merely on trial for grand s, but was merely on trial for grand Ward's counsel moved that the jury be disabout the cutting of some grain, but after indulging in considerable talk over the affair it Ward's counsel moved that the jury be dismissed on account of the statement made by the district attorney regarding Gen. Grant and Mr. Fish. The motion was denied. Mr. Fish said: I am 60 years old, a convict at Auburn state prison, to which I was sentenced for ten years at hard labor. I saw the check handed to me on May 5, 1884. It was handed to me by the paying teller. I directed it certified after I went to the telephone and rang up. Ward. To the question, "Is the prisoner here, Ward, the man you mean?" Mr. Fish (leaning over again), "I would like to see him. Yes, that is the man." Continuing the witness said: I said over dulging in considerable talk over the affair it was thought to have been finally settled. However, Alt, being of a quarrelsome disposition, sought to make further trouble about the matter, and on the morning named mounted his horse and rode over to Miner's residence, and seeing Miner he at once alighted and according to the former's statement, made an unprovoked attack upon Miner with a knife in his hand. To defend himself Miner seized a shovel lying near and struck Alt twice on the head, making two terrible gashes. The injured man then walked to his home, where he died from the effects of the wounds about 10 o'clock. continuing the witness said: I said over the telephone, "Ward, I have your heek here for certification for 71,800 against an uncertified check for 55,000. Ward telephoned back it was all light and I certified it." Witness then de-ailed the oft-told story of the events leading Immediately after Miner struck Alt be came to town and told the sherin what he had done, and was advised to go home again until charges were brought against him. In obedience to this he returned home, but only to find that Alt was dead After transfers. that Alt was dead. After arranging some personal matters at home, he came back to town last evening and surrendered himself to the sheriff, and is now in jail. The sympathy of the neighborhood is with Miner, who is said to be a quiet, inoffensive man. The prisoner this morning said that he had no thought of killing Alt. to the break down of the Marine bank. The witness' brother, Benjamin Fish, paying teller of the Marine bank, corroborated the ex-president's testimony and the court then adjourned until to-morrow. prisoner this morning said that he had no thought of killing Alt.

A Philadelphia Judge Fines a Showman for Indecent Advertising. PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 26,—William J. Gilnore, proprietor of the Central theatre, was this morning arraigned before Judge Biddle on a charge of obscene libel, preferred by Joseph Leeds. The charge was based on an exhibition of a picture representing characters in the spectacular production of "The ters in the spectacular production of "The Seven Rayens," which it advertised to be performed at the theatre some time ago. It was bung on the outside of the theatre. The question was left by the court to the jury to determine from the picture itself, whether it was as charged an indecent publication. The jury, after short deliberation, returned a verdict of guilty. Counsel for Gilmore said that the picture was no werse than similar ones exhibited in front of another theater where there was a ballet. Mysterious Disappearance of Money. FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 24.-[Chicago Times Special.] -A farmer named Craig, who recently purchased a farm in this county, called at the office of the American Express ompany to-day for a package of money that package, which was received here on the 23d, was handed him, It was shipped from Chippewa Falls, Wis., which is the most convenient railroad point to Omro, and left the former point to Omro, and left the former point on the 20th or 21st. Mr. Craig receipted for the package, which was supposed to contain about $4,000, and it was opened in the presence of W. P. Chapman, the express agent, and George Torrance, the real estate agent, who made the sale of the farm. When it was opened it contained slips of paper cut from the Milwaukee Sentinel. The surprise of all the parties can only be Imagined. All they the parties can only be I magined. All they can do is to wait further developments. The theory advanced at this end of the route is that Mr. Craig handed the money to another party to express, and that it was never expressed This theory is supported by the fact that a common envelope, addressed in what is sup-posed to be Mr. Craig's writing, inclosed all the papers, and the envelope had been opened end and doubled over and placed in regular money envelope of the express com-pany, and was regularly scaled at four places th the standard stamp of the company at

QUOTATIONS CONTINUE WEAK

The Cattle Outlook Unpromising-

Wheat Closed a Shade Higher-The English Market, and Grain in Sight and Store.

Chicago Live Stock Market. CHICAGO, Oct. 26,-[Special to the BEE.]-CATTLE -Trade was slow in all the branches. Up to a late hour there had been scarcely . sufficient number of cattle sold to make a market. The bulk of the tresh arrivals were Texaus and rangers. Among the natives were only a few loads that could be classified as good and useful stock. The useful natives that were sold made a shade botter prices than such sold for during the panic of Friday. but low grades and common natives were selling no better. Stockers and feeders are in fair supply and prices steady at last week's range. Stock calves are in light supply and trade was rather slow. Although trade was slow at the opening, it was the general opinion that the stock on sale would be disposed of at one price or another. The outlook for a strong and active market for the week is not as bright as sellers would desire. The eastern and English markets are full of cattle and dressed beer, and buyers, both in this country and on the other side, have been advised by the bears on this side that the run of cattle is likely to continue beavy for another month is likely to centimine heavy for another month or so. Receipts of range cattle were liberal to-day and the market was slow and weak. While there were a few good northwestern cattle sold at stronger prices, the general market was as bad as last week. Common to fair grades were in large supply and nobody wanted such stock, even at a low price. Sales were made slowly and generally at about Friday's rates. For canning cattle there was almost no demand, and sales were made very almost no demand, and sales were made very slowly at barely steady rates. Chicago Grain Market.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 .- | Special to the BRE.] --WHEAT-There was an unsettled and neryous feeling in the wheat market to-day, and fluctuations were numerous and very rapid within a narrow range. Rumors of an open rupture between Servia and Bulgarla had the effects of causing shorts to cover, besides inducing other speculative buying, but British consols did not show any rpecial change from Saturday, quoting only 1-1e6 decline for the account, and French securities were quoted higher. With every advance in the price of wheat, there was some desire to in Ouro, Wis. This money he was to use in making a final payment on the farm. The to the effect that the Minneapolis millers had reduced prices 2c, and that receipts there were reduced prices 2c, and that receipts there were heavy, caused a weaker feeling and prices declined 2cc. The market started up again on good buying and with several fluctuations advanced to a point 1½c shove inside rigures, eased off again and closed on the regular board ½c higher than Saturday. In the afternoon the market ruled quite strong, prices advancing to outside figures for the day, and closing at 87½c for December, or 1½c higher than the latest prices Saturday. The stock of wheat at New York increased only about 73,000 bushels during the weak. Estimates as to the visible supply differed widely, varying from 1,250,000 to Review of the English Grain Trade LONDON, Oct. 26,-The Mark Lane Express in its review of the British grain trade during the past week, says: Rain has temporarily checked autumnal sowing. Wheat is likely checked autumnal sowing. Wheat is used to continue cheap until the bulk of stock is exhausted. Sales of English wheat during the week were 71,308 quarters, at 318 6d, against 66,044 quarters at 528 4d during the corresponding period last year. Flour is freely offered at lower rates. Foreigh wheats are duil; buyers and sellers refuse to yield to each other. Flour is steadily held. Corn is each other. are dull; buyers and sellers refuse to yield to each other. Flour is steadily held. Corn is weaker, owing to the report of an enormous crop in America. There has been no busi-ness in cargoes. Nine cargoes arrived, one cargo was withdrawn and nine remained, including three of California. To-day's marcet was slow and dragging; wheat dull; barey and oats quiet.
